

Horace Mann Elementary Schools' Student Performance Report is to recognize student performance in certain areas of study formulated by the State Department of Education. This report is published one calendar year later to provide necessary data for this report. As you review this report, remember this is last year's data being reported. As I review this report, I was extremely proud of the number of students that scored satisfactory or above in the 3rd and 4th grades. Scoring 90th percentile is outstanding and I am proud of our students and teachers for this accomplishment. Our 5th grade also scored in 90th percentile in all subject areas except math and social studies. Our 88% in Math is above state average but our goal is to have all subject areas above the 90th percentile. Our social studies performance is unacceptable and this will be addressed by our teachers and students. Our staff has identified this area and we are working hard to make improvements.

The educational success of your child depends on the importance we place on learning both at school and home. When a parent stresses the importance of an education, communicates acceptable expectations regarding grades and behavior, and helps develop good study habits, Horace Mann will continue to be the model school. Without the support of the parents, our job becomes increasingly more challenging. Horace Mann encourages that partnership to expand the world of learning for your student. Help us continue the success of our students, as we focus on educating your child.
